NET GAIN FOR A WEEK

STRENGTH OUTSIDE OF FOREIGN HELPED STOCK EXCHANGE.

Financial Crisis in Europe Temporarily Tided Over-Local Markets in Better Shape Generally.

At New York Saturday money on call was nominally 1122 per cent.

Prime mercantile paper, 4@51/2 per cent. Sterling exchange was firm, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.89\@4.89\% for demand and $4.87% @4.88 for sixty days; posted rates, $4.881/2 and $4.90; commercial bills, $4.87.

ir silver, 67%c; Mexican dollars, 54c, At London bar silver was 304d per ounce. The exports of specie from the port of New York for the week amounted to $3,273,-600 in gold and $1,096,902 in silver. The imports were: Gold, $148,044; silver, $33,711; dry goods, $2,392,502; general merchandise, $7, 657, 402. The weekly bank statement shows the following changes: decrease 2,989,700

Circulation, decrease 199,000 The banks now hold $20,404,060 in excess of the requirements of the 25-per-cent, rule.

The Financier says: "The statement of the associated banks of New York for the week ending Nov. 16 does not reflect the week's operations by any means. During the week ending with Saturday over $3,000,000 in gold was exported to Europe, the specie being obtained by the exchange of legal tenders, which were drawn from the banks. Yet the bank statement for the current week shows an actual increase of $697,000 in cash, the loss of $631,400 in legal tenders being offset by an increase of $1,348,600 in specie did ligure in the statement, but even with this factor eliminated the report does not cover the actual condition of the banks. The fact that the demand for interior funds is falling off, and that the reserves of the New York banks are gradually decreasing seems to foreshadow a less favorable rate for money. The loan total now stands at 492,935,500, the lowest figure reported since

May 11 last. Total sales of stocks to-day were 69,703 including the following: American Sugar, 4,900; American Tobacco, 3,800; Atchi-866, 1,700; Burlington, 6,800; Chicago Gas, 2,000; Distillers, 6,800; Louisville & Nashville, 2,000; Manbattan, 2,700; Reading, 19,700; Rock Island, 1,600; St. Paul, 3,000; silver certifi-

Saturday's stock speculation was not es-pecially in cresting. The movement of prices was narrow, as a rule, and the trading was, at times, stagnant. The market opened dull, with the changes in a lower direction. A firm tone soon developed and important fractional gains occurred in some of the leading shares. Reading was an exception, yielding 1% per cent. to 9%, with a subsequent re-covery of about one-half of the decide. The closing was dull, but firm, and, as a result of the day's business, light fractional gains pear in a number of instances. The week's perations in stocks have been based on inuences most of which had previously been familiar. The news that the assumed in pending crash in Kaffirs and unsettled financlai situation in Europe had been tided over by the intervention of powerful European capitalists caused a more reassuring sectiwhenever financial conditions become acute. either because of overspeculation or of un-favorable trade balances, the great monetary powers employ their resources to pre-vent general demoralization. This is exactly what has occurred in Paris, Vienna, Berlin, Constantinople and St. Petersburg this week. ondon, which had profited by sailing its South Africa mining share to continental buyers fortunately found itself in good condition, so that no general Gradually, too. Was necessary. general public is becoming convinced that the political complications in Europe will not assume a dangerous phase. The influence of these favorable developments in Europe was felt in our stock market and securities advanced rapidly on a wholesale covering movement by domestic and for-eign shorts and some purchases by specu-lative pools. The result was a sharp upward turn in stock prices, which held until the middle of the week, an early export of $1,000,000 of gold apparently falling flat. The conviction arising from the continued ength of the exchange market that furher exports were inevitable, and, eventually, the reappearance as a shipper of gold of the house usually most prominent in bulls. The engagement of additional such movements, proved too much for the amounts for export, bringing the aggregate for the week to $2,287,600, caused the loss of a part of the early improvement. The net results for the week, however, show general gans except in Manhattan railway and Reading. The first-named has declined steadily since the publication of the annual report, and the last has logically suffered as the time for the official announcement of the plan of reorganization approaches All of the various interests in Reading have Peaches—Standard 3-pound, $1.50@1.75; 3-pound seconds, $1.20@1.40; 3-pound pie, 85@ 90c; California standard, $1.75@2; California seconds, $1.40@1.50 Miscellaneous—Blackberries, 2-pound, 85@90c; raspberries, 2-pound, 90@95c; pineapple, standard, 2-pound, $1.25@1.35; choice, $2@2.50; cove oysters, 1-pound, full weight, 90@95c; light, 60@65c; 2-pound, full weight, $1.60@1.70; light, $1.10@1.20; string beans, 75@85c; Lima beans, $1.10@1.20; peas, marrowfat, 90c@$1.10; early June, 90c@$1.10; lobsters, $1.85@2; red cherries, 90c@$1; strawberries, 90@95c; salmons (lbs), $1.10@2; 3-pound tomatoes, 70@85c. consistently stated that for the rehabilitation of the company a sum of from $20,-000.60 to $30,000,000 would be imperatively requisite. The latest alleged details of the distribution of the assessment on the prefrence income bonds is that holders will have to pay from 15 to 20 per cent., the stock being taxed at the latter figures. It is also claimed that the general mortgage fours will exercise a voting trust for a term of years. Pacific Mail has been favorably influenced by the reported reconsideration by that company of the terms offered by the Panama railroad for an alli-ance. Bearing on the general financial outlook is the unchanged trade conditions which have compelled the week's gold export and the attitude of foreign investors and speculators toward our securities. Briefly, the cause of the exportation of gold at the present time is that our exports of mer-chandise have remained stationary while our imports show a heavy increase. Euro-pean dealers, at the moment, are apparent-ly too much engaged at home to take any

LOCAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Few Fluctuations in Values.

Trade of the second week of November last three months. The grocers have had a big trade for a week or more. Dry-goods houses are doing more than in November last year. Confectioners report holiday trade already setting in, and on the wholesale streets little grumbling of dull business is heard. On Commission row the conditions are not so satisfactory. Home produce has done so much toward supplying local trade and that of the surrounding towns and cities that the commission merchant has not had a fair show, so to speak.

But from this on commission men look for an improvement, in fact, the last week the improvement become perceptible and so noticeable that prices on fruits and vegetables

were much firmer and in some articles advanced. The produce market is quite active. Eggs are firm at quotations, and poultry more steady. The provision market is a little slow, and on some descriptions of hog products prices rule weak. The hay and flour markets are firm and unchanged.

The local grain market has been fairly

active of late, quotations from day to day

varying but little the past week. Track

Pen Portraits of Napoleon and Josephine.

From His Valet's Memoirs. On his return from Egypt the Emperor was very meagre and very yellow, his complexion coppery, his eyes sunken, his shape perfect, although rather slender then. I think the portrait made by M. Horace Ver-net in his picture, "Une Revue du Premier Consul sur la Place du Carrousel," is very like him. His forehead was very high and open; he had not much hair, especially on the temples, but it was very fine and soft. It was of a chestnut color, and his eyes were a beautiful blue, which depicted in an ncredible manner the different emotions which agitated him, sometimes extremely soft and caressing, and again severe and hard. His mouth was ever beautiful. lips smooth and somewhat contracted, especially in ill humor. His teeth, without being very regular, were very white and very good; he never complained of them. His nose, Grecian in form, was irreproach able, and his sense of smell exceedingly keen. In fine, the ensemble of his face was regularly handsome. His head was large, sing twenty-two inches in circumference it was a little longer than it was wide, and ples; it was extremely sensitive, so that I had to wad his hats, and I took care to wear them several days in my own room, so as to break them in. His ears were small, perfectly shaped, and well placed. His figure was five feet two inches three ines in height. The Empress Josephine was of medium height and singularly well made; there was a suppleness and lightness in her movements which gave an almost aerial grace to her bearing, yet without detracting from the majesty of a sovereign. Her expressive physiognomy translated all the impressions of her soul without ever losing the charming sweetness which was its basis. In pleasure, as in sadness, she was beautiful to be hold. You smiled in spite of yourself on seeing her smile. * * If she was sad, you were so likewise. Never did any wom-an justify more fully than she the saying that the eyes are the mirror of the soul. Hers, of a deep blue, were almost always half-closed by her long lids, slightly arched, and fringed by the most beautiful lashes in the world; and when she looked thus one felt drawn toward her by an irresistible lower. It would have been difficult for the apress to impart any severity to this seductive glance, but she could, and at need knew how to render it imposing. Her hair was very beautiful, long and silky, and its pale chestnut color blended admirably with that of her skin, dazzling with delicacy and freshness. At the beginning of her supreme power the Empress still liked to put a red Madras handkerchief on her head in the mornings, which gave her a most qipuant, creole-like appearance. But what contributed more than anything else to the allravishing sound of her voice.

LOST THE BET. An Early Experience of Prize-Fight Promoter Stuart.

Washington Letter. Colonel Sterritt, of Washington, correspondent, racenteur and personal friend of all the great men of Texas, tells a story that will be relished about "Dan" Stuart, whose efforts to promote physical culture by bringing together the star jawfighters, Corbett and Fitzsimmons, have given him a national reputation.

"Dan," said Colonel Sterritt, "came to Texas when he was a young man, and began business in Terrell, driving a dray. He hailed from Vermont and stopped awhile in Baltimore and Washington. He worked in Terrell two months and had scraped together a surplus of $10. One night he was string in a restaurant-saloon one of those itting in a restaurant-saloon, one of those combination affairs common in all communi-ties, when a drunken German butcher rolled in and proposed to bet any man within hear-ing of his voice that he could eat more oysters in less time than any man in the world. 'Dan' had learned a few tricks about the gentle bivalve during his stay in Balti-more and Washington, and he said to himself. 'These fellows away off here a thousand miles from any oyster bed must be dead easy, so I guess I'll take charge of that Dutchman's tenner.' Well, to make a long story short, the bet was made and Dan and the Dutchman were each to eat three dozen canned oysters against time. It was agreed that each could have his oysters prepared anyway he might desire—broiled, stewed, raw or what not. Dan decided to take his raw, and arranged on a plate so he could impale three on a fork in a single thrust. The trays were brought in covered with napkins. At a signal the covering was removed and Dan and the Dutchman went removed and Dan and the Dutchman went at it. Dan speared his first three, and as he was about to throw his head back to swallow them his eyes rolled over to the Dutchman's comer. To his horror he saw the Dutchman with a big glass bowl raised to his face gulping the last of three dozen oysters that had been chopped fine. He said he never saw such a mouth in his life. It was as wide as the entrance to Mammoth Cave and the threat that led from it moth Cave and the throat that led from it was as cavernous as the black funnel of an ocean steamer. No sherry and egg ever vanished quicker than those three dozen chopped oysters, and Dan fell back dead. That incident occurred twenty years ago, but Dan never recurs to it without getting gloomy. The loss of that $10 hart him worse than the $30,000 lost on the prize fight that was never fought. It was the one time in his life when he felt that he had really gone right up against it.'

Fun That Pays.

There is a coterie of about forty writers, most of whom live in this city, who do nothing else but write for the comic papers. They do not wait for a happy inspiration, but make the inspiration come to them. They write jokes and verse for a living, and some of them it is a good living, in-1. These are the men the comic papers at least ten of them make from $40 to $80 a week "just joke writing." Some of these are well known to the general public from their Special to the Indianapolis Journal. PRINCETON, Ind., Nov. 16.-The funeral of the veteran editor, William H. Evans, took place in this city this afternoon. The remains arrived from Oakland City at noon member, and escorted to the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, where the remains lay in state until 3 o'clock. Thousands of people took a last look at the old man, who was loved by all. Many children were seen to edge their way to the side of the casket, and, as they gazed at their old friend, tears streamed down their little faces. The fural was the largest ever held in this city. Mr. Evans was one of the oldest newspaper men in the State.

FAITH CURIST SCG Coroner's Verdict on the Death o John Bennett's Daughter.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal ANDERSON, Ind., Nov. 16 .- Coroner S. C. Sells, of Madison county, has completed his report in the matter of the inquest of the death of the daughter of Mr. John Bennett, of this city, the believer in faith cures, and whose daughter died a few days ago. At that time the cause of her death was assigned as "fear and sin" by the attending physician, who is a faith curist. The attention of the secretary of the Board of Health was called to the case and a post mortem ordered. The verdict is as follows:
"I, S. C. Sells, coroner of Madison county, after making all inquiries necessary and hearing the evidence, do find that the said Bertha V. Bennett came to her death on Nov. 10, 1895, in Anderson, Ind., the cause of her death being diphtheria, said death being due, as I believe, to the neglect of her parents in failing to furnish the child the necessary and proper medical attention, which they should and could have done."

Driving Off the Tramps. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WARSAW, Ind., Nov. 16 .- The officials of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago railway have inaugurated a war on the tramp fraternity. This road has heretofore been regarded as the favorite route of the hobo. Owing to the great length and large number of freight trains it was next to impossible for the train men to keep the tramps off.
As a consequence the towns and villages along the road, as well as the railroad people, have been greatly annoyed. Two de tectives now operate on the road between this city and Chicago, and place under arrest all persons other than employes found on freight trains. Every day tramps are brought here and placed in jail by the detectives. Occasionally some of them pay their fines, and this morning a pair startled the Mayor and Police Court officials by displaying a large roll of money and paying the fine imposed on them for trespass, $18.25 each. The railroad officials are determined to keep the tramps off their line, as the company has of late suffered heavy losses through the plundering of cars laden with Farmer Charged with Dynamiting. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ELKHART, Ind., Nov. 16.-Allen Thompson, a well-known and wealthy farmer, has been arrested on the charge of throwing a stick of dynamite into the affice of Dr. J. J. Sweetland at Maltville, near here, Wednesday night. At the time the explosion occurred Andrew M. Gray, a patient, was so badly injured that he will probably die. The Doctor was also considerably injured. The flesh was torn from Gray's legs and body in great pieces, and he was seriously affected by the concussion. Sweetland says he saw Thompson at the window just as he was in the act of torsion. window just as he was in the act of tossing the dynamite, and when the latter fell on the floor he sprang forward with the inten-tion of picking it up and throwing it out, but it exploded before he was able to do so. Sweetland and Thompson have been in-veterate enemies for some rears. Thompson denies that he threw the dynamite.

Wealthy Woman Is Queer. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Nov. 16 .- An unknown woman is attracting much attention in the vicinity of Charlestown by her unusual actions. When first seen she was standing in the yard of J. W. Cowley's residence, and stated that her horse had run away and her son, who was with her, had gone after it. She was invited inside by the family, who suspected nothing wrong, and immediately astonished them by laying down on a sofa and going to sleep. She also visited the homes of William Barrett and Joshua Minor, and acted very queerly. She is well dressed and has plenty of money. She also claims to own a big block of Big Four railroad stock. The neighborhood is excited over her actions.

THE SUCCULENT OYSTER. Why This Bivalve Suffers So Much in a Drought.

place to-day at 2 p. m.

Baltimore Sun. An intelligent Claiborne oyster packer gives these as the reasons why the oysters are so poor at this time:

First, the excessive droughts of the summer and fall, and, second, the singular fact that this year, particularly since the beginning of summer, the Chesapeake tides have been extremely moderate, not more have been extremely moderate, not more than eighteen inches between high and low water at any time at the maximum. As the oyster is stationary and cannot go in pursuit of its food, the food must be brought to the oyster. Heavy rains sweeping down from the uplands over the oyster bottoms bring food, so does the agitation of the waters by the rains, wind-storms and currents. In our waters the tides produce the currents, and it can easily be seen that when the tides rise and fall three feet a much stronger current is produced than much stronger current is produced than when only eighteen inches. Two or three heavy rains, some violent wind-storms stir-ring up the water from surface to bot-tom, and a succession of strong tides would soon fatten the oysters. Were the oysters fat, there would be enough in our waters for the season's demand. In their present lition, if it remains so, there will no be. When a packer gets an order not for one hundred gallons of oysters, it wittake 175 bushels to fill it, whereas, if the were in prime condition, one hundred bush
